In developing planned activities for our program, we recognize the importance of an understanding of child development and the importance of fun and play in this process. We aim to develop an environment of trust and partnership between parents and our staff to ensure that children see us as a team working collaboratively in the provision of their care.

Our service is inclusive in all respects, regardless of disability, gender, culture or race. Our aim is to develop the social, emotional and creative skills of the children in our care through art, craft, music, support with homework tasks, cooking, outdoor play and physical activity.
